

Clay County School District Increases ROI on AgendaPlus

Clay County School District (headquartered in Green Cove Springs, Florida) has approximately 35,000 students, 5,000 employees, and 42 schools. The district's mission is to work collaboratively with all stakeholders to provide a public education experience that is motivating, challenging and rewarding for all children. The key for educational planning and collaboration begins with an Agenda & Meeting Management Solution.

Organizational Challenge

The Clay County School District (CCSD) was using an older failing system that caused continuous IT problems. So the search for a new Agenda & Meeting Management Solution began. In May of 2016, the CCSD implemented AgendaPlus (by Agile Tech Consulting) for their School Board's Agenda & Meeting Management Solution.

The Process

Agile Tech Consulting customized the AgendaPlus system to fulfill the School District's technical requirements and meet the School Board's agenda needs. Agile Tech Consulting supported CCSD from the beginning of development, including training the staff, and through a successful deployment. "During the transfer to the newer system (AgendaPlus) the support we received from AgendaPlus was second to none. During this transform time, we were able to pull all of our old agendas into a newer html5 format that allowed us for future scalability" explains Jeremy Bunkley (IT Service Department Supervisor). The team at Agile Tech Consulting provided a clean database switchover and excellent end-user training and support.

The Result

When Clay County School District decided to upgrade solutions, the main reasons they chose AgendaPlus was the value and ROI received. "The breakeven point was two years and eight months. And after that, we started receiving about $9,000 a year on our return on the investment" describes Jeremy Bunkley (IT Service Department Supervisor). Karen Bush, the Board Assistant, prepares and manages all of the agendas for the school district. She says "I am happy to say, their product comes with complete customer satisfaction. We were able to streamline our process and it now takes half the time to prepare and publish our agendas and minutes"
